Dear Friends and Supporters of Allendale Columbia School,

So much has happened in our world over the past 12 months. Despite those challenges, our AC community continued to support the School monetarily to the best of its ability. Although we did not reach the historic levels of giving that were achieved in 2019-2020, together, we surpassed the $1 million mark. Through your generosity, our School was able to provide essential student scholarships, purchase equipment to enhance academic programming, and contribute to retaining our high quality faculty. We deeply appreciate all that you have done to enrich the Allendale Columbia School experience for more than 365 children.

We are proud to report that through a combination of fundraising, solid enrollment, continued fiscal responsibility, and hard work, AC finished 2020-2021 in a positive financial position. Indicators of this success include the School’s ability to not tap into its line of credit or borrow against future tuition dollars while growing its endowment.

Each new school year brings fresh opportunities for our students, faculty, and staff to grow academically, professionally, and personally. Much of last year’s growth came in Pre-Primary, where we added a unique Reggio Emilia-inspired educational program for children ages 18-36 months-old called “AC Little School”. Our Pre-Primary and Lower School Divisions will continue to expand this coming year, and in fact, we already have waitlists in several classes. Throughout 2020-2021, our Middle and Upper School students and faculty demonstrated extraordinary resilience as they reinvented new ways to carry on AC traditions like Holiday Breakfast and Strawberry Breakfast via Zoom so parents and families near and far could participate remotely.

What will 2021-2022 bring? While we don’t have a crystal ball, we do know that we will be skillfully led by AC’s new Head of School, Dr. Glen Pinder. Dr. Pinder was selected from an international pool of highly qualified candidates and arrived in Rochester from New Jersey on July 1st, 2021. We look forward to introducing Dr. Pinder to everyone in the AC School community.

Thank you for your continued support. We share your excitement in partnering with AC as we grow and thrive together.

Sincerely,

Shannon Baudo
Interim Head of School 2020-2021

Launching AC’s Little School

In September 2020, we opened the doors to AC’s first-ever 18-month-2 year old program, AC Little School. Ten students under the age of three years old joined us each day learning through our Reggio Emilia curriculum, where learning is student-driven and there is an emphasis on exploration, experiential learning, and utilizing nature and the world around us to make connections. From exploring AC’s nature trails and sensory-driven playground to educational units about animals, insects, and plants, our youngest students are engaged and empowered every single day at AC. Our program was so successful, we have a waiting list for the upcoming school year and now have plans for expansion!

Fairies, gnomes, and giants - oh my!

AC nursery schoolers were hard at work this past spring creating a fairy garden. After reading many different gardening, construction, and fairy books, each student used their spatial awareness skills to create a blueprint of their new outdoor space. Raking the mulch and moving stumps, sticks, and rocks around challenged their gross motor skills. Their individual artistry truly shined while assembling wind chimes, painting rocks, and constructing miniature furniture. Skills in creative expression and storytelling skyrocketed as our three and four year olds took on the roles of fairies, gnomes, and giants during pretend play.

Students work on decorations for the new fairy garden in the outdoor space by their classroom.

From drab to fab! AC nursery schoolers use their creativity to transform this outdoor space.

Kindergarten creates outdoor classroom for all and honors faculty

AC kindergarten students put in some hard work in the courtyard during their final project-based learning unit. They weeded, swept, and planted flowers and then added tree stump seats for a natural outdoor classroom! Students identified the plants in the courtyard with the plant identifying app, Seek, and then researched the plants and decided to create garden stakes with the plant names.

Thanks to Ms. Oliveri, the students were able to create beautiful wind chimes and garden stakes from clay. In addition, the kindergarteners learned about the process of firing clay in the kiln and had a blast glazing clay creations and seeing the final products.

The children were very excited to welcome everyone to the courtyard and even designed letters using the laser cutter that spell “All Are Welcome.” These amazing letters were glued to “tree cookies” and placed near the doorway. It sure looks like a happy place to be.

As an added surprise, the class also dedicated a portion of the space to retiring Lower School teacher of 40 years, Randy Northrup. Every Lower School student and faculty member decorated a rock (approximately 200 rocks!) to create the “Randy Rocks Garden” in his honor.

We hope everyone at AC feels welcome to read, meditate, play, and more in this special redesigned space for years to come!

Retiring teacher Randy Northrup poses by the rock garden dedicated in his honor.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, INCLUSION
Eyes that Kiss in the Corners

AC Lower Schoolers met (virtually) with New York Times Best Selling children’s author Joanna Ho. In preparation for her visit, students read her book “Eyes that Kiss in the Corners”, a story of self-love and empowerment. During the visit, students were able to ask questions that lead to enriching conversations, celebrating individual beauty and confidence.
Sixth grade “me, you, we” retreat
Sixth-grade students participated in a three-day retreat in April centered around the themes of “me, you, we”. This retreat gave them the opportunity to step away from their Chromebooks and engage in activities, including slackline, obstacle courses, STEM activities, reflective writing, and group discussions around various topics.

Empty Bowls goes virtual
For the sixth year in a row, seventh and eighth grade ceramic students hosted Empty Bowls, an international grassroots fundraising project aimed at addressing food insecurity. The event, typically held as an in-person silent auction, was hosted as a virtual event this year. The auction featured approximately 110 innovative, handmade pieces created by local artists, AC alums, faculty/staff, and students in kindergarten through 12th grade, and they raised $2,307.95, which was donated to Save the Children. It was truly a community effort and a wonderful experience for all who were involved.

AC launches new diploma programs
This year AC proudly launched two new diploma programs: the Creativity & Entrepreneurship Engagement diploma and the STEM Engagement diploma. These diplomas are the first of their kind offered in the Rochester region and are awarded to students in addition to their traditional diploma. These innovative programs allow students to dive deeper into understanding and investigating their interests and offer a personalized experience that is designed to provide students with choice, autonomy, and purpose. Both diplomas are offered through AC’s Centers for Impact, which challenge students to think and work in new ways to better prepare them for the world they will inherit, shape, and lead.

AC students get real-world production experience with WROC
Despite the unusual challenges of this past year, AC students continued to embrace opportunities to apply their learning in the real world. This year’s AC Production and Design students collaborated with WROC to produce the Best Buddies of Western New York chapter’s largest fundraiser of the year. The students were responsible for creating and producing vignettes, commercials, and promotional social media content for the virtual gala. Their work culminated in a 30-minute, pre-recorded program that aired on WROC. The gala raised more than $35,000 for programming across Western New York.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, INCLUSION 21-Day Equity Challenge
Allendale Columbia School is committed to fostering diversity, equity, and inclusion in our community, and we are proud to be one of the more than 400 local organizations to participate in the United Way of Greater Rochester’s 21-Day Equity Challenge. Students, parents, faculty, administrators, and staff from AC participated in the Equity Challenge, which covered a wide range of topics including basic definitions of bias and privilege as well as an overview of the challenges of talking about race. Education was a key focus of the series and included an examination of the economic and racial segregation of our local schools. It also offered critical tips on how to talk to children about race. Additionally, AC hosted a series of equity events for our community to come together and reflect on these valuable resources as we work toward achieving our equity goals.
